

a) Analyse the framework shown above by using the method of joints. Make sure that you carefully identify whether individual elements are in tension or compression.

B) Complete the analysis of the framework shown above using STRAND 7 software. Try & choose a beam type from the library OF materials & SECTIONS that would be appropriate for the construction of the framework. Justify your selection with engineering judgment based on the results of the analysis.